

Damage claims insurance and third party bookings

Customer information and internal assessment | Original draft for review

Service complaints and insurance are separate

Tell Homlle promptly about damage, loss or injury so evidence and safety can be addressed. A request for prompt reporting does not remove statutory rights or automatically reject a delayed report. Liability under the service contract is assessed separately from whether an insurance policy responds. Homlle does not promise insurer approval, a particular cover limit or a discretionary compensation scheme without an approved published schedule.

Reporting a concern

Provide the booking reference, date, description, location of the issue and relevant safe evidence. Photographs, ownership information, age/condition, purchase records or a repair/replacement estimate may help. Where an original receipt is unavailable, consider reasonable alternatives. Do not require unsafe investigation or an expensive expert certificate in every case. Record pre-existing damage and the provider's account fairly. Urgent assistance takes priority over gathering evidence.

Homlle should acknowledge, assign a case owner, request proportionate information, notify the insurer where appropriate and explain the next steps. Do not promise a result before assessment. Customers may challenge the outcome and pursue applicable rights; neither a complaint nor an insurance claim requires removal of an honest review.

Valuation and payment

Assess the actual loss and appropriate remedy, including repair where suitable, with reasons. Any proposed deduction for age, wear or betterment must be justified in the circumstances; no universal annual depreciation rate is imposed by this draft. No arbitrary excess, lower claim threshold, compensation cap or mandatory voucher payment is adopted from another business. A legally due monetary refund or compensation must not be replaced with a voucher without an appropriate agreement.

Where Homlle offers an additional discretionary scheme, publish its precise eligibility, exclusions, reporting requirements, excess, limits and interaction with legal rights separately. The insurer's contractual conditions apply to insurance claims, but must not be represented as extinguishing Homlle's own liability. Do not state theft, artwork or cosmetic surface damage is never actionable merely because a policy excludes it.

Insurance schedule to complete

Insurer and policyholder _____; policy number/reference _____; insured services and territories _____; period _____; public liability/treatment/keys or other cover _____; limits and excesses _____; important exclusions _____; notification route/deadlines _____; customer claims contact _____. Have the insurer confirm any statements about cover before publication. Never imply that a provider's personal policy covers Homlle or every booking automatically.

Bookings for another person or property

Tell Homlle when you book for a tenant, relative, guest or other beneficiary. Confirm your authority to arrange entry and payment, share the relevant service information, and explain who can approve changes and raise concerns. Provide the beneficiary's relevant privacy notice rather than assuming the booker's consent authorises all data processing. A landlord must have lawful access arrangements; owning a property is not permission to ignore occupiers' rights.

The person receiving a beauty treatment must give valid treatment consent where required. The booker cannot waive another person's injury or privacy rights. Do not make the booker automatically indemnify every claim by a beneficiary. Identify any beneficiary rights and payer duties in the booking schedule, with legal review where needed.

Business customer schedule

Business name/number/contact _____; property and authority to access _____; payer and billing terms _____; service specification and evidence _____; authorised changes _____; occupier notice/access arrangements _____; complaints and liability terms reviewed _____. Determine consumer/business status from the facts. Until separate business terms are approved, do not silently apply consumer exclusions to landlord or commercial work.

Claim decision record

Case and evidence _____; immediate safety action _____; relevant contract/policy _____; each party's response _____; causation/valuation assessment _____; decision and reasons _____; insurer reference _____; remedy/amount/method _____; authoriser/date _____; customer notified and challenge route _____.
