

Beauty services, consultation and consent

Service-specific approval framework | Original draft for review

Approved scope

Provide only the non-medical treatments listed in the Provider's approved service schedule and covered by qualifications, insurance and any applicable local requirements. This pack does not approve injectables, invasive procedures, lasers, prescription products or medical services. Before adding a service, verify local licensing, premises/mobile restrictions, manufacturer protocols and insurer conditions. Being approved as a cleaner does not approve beauty work.

Before the appointment

Explain the treatment, price, expected duration, realistic outcome, relevant risks, alternatives and aftercare in understandable language. Confirm identity and age using a proportionate approved process. OWNER DECISION: set treatment-specific minimum ages and parental/guardian rules after legal and insurer review; do not treat a general guardian signature as authorising every treatment.

Collect only consultation information relevant to that treatment. Use the manufacturer's protocol and professional training to assess suitability, product testing requirements and circumstances requiring deferral or specialist advice. Do not invent a universal patch-test interval or diagnose a medical condition. A prior negative test is not a guarantee against a future reaction. If necessary information or a required test is missing, postpone rather than waive the control.

Consent and privacy

Ask for voluntary, specific treatment consent after questions are answered. The customer may pause or stop the treatment. Consent is not a waiver of negligence or statutory rights. Record the treatment and product version, explanation, relevant test result and decision, but avoid excessive medical detail. Health-data processing consent, where relied upon, is separate from treatment consent. Marketing photographs require another optional permission.

Do not proceed if the customer cannot give valid consent in the circumstances. Escalate concerns through the approved safeguarding route. Do not offer a discount in exchange for hiding an adverse reaction or removing a complaint.

Safe delivery and incident response

Use clean, maintained tools and the appropriate cleaning/disinfection or sterilisation process for the equipment and treatment. Follow single-use rules, prevent cross-contamination, check expiry and traceability, and follow product exposure and ventilation instructions. Maintain a safe setup with suitable lighting and surfaces in a customer's home. Avoid assuming any domestic room is suitable for every treatment.

Stop at pain, distress or a suspected adverse reaction. Follow the product and treatment emergency protocol, obtain appropriate urgent assistance, and report promptly. Preserve product/batch and treatment details securely. Do not continue to finish the appointment, diagnose the cause or promise the reaction is harmless.

Provide written aftercare consistent with the actual treatment and route concerns to a competent professional.
